Lakeland Baptist Church To Have Installation; Has A.B.C. Acceptance

The Lakeland Baptist church of Lake Villa was officially accepted into the American Baptist Convention earlier this month, according to an announcement by the moderator, Mr. Donald Newman. In the near future the leaders of the Chicago Baptist association will conduct a formal installation service in the church.

This Baptist church, which was organized eighteen months ago, has made remarkable progress. Its membership and assets have been steadily increased. It now has a full-time minister.

At a business meeting of the church last Saturday night, Carl Flattum was elected to the office of deacon and Mrs. J. W. Beeman was elected to the office of deaconess.

The minister, Rev. John Barbee, a native of North Carolina, is now making his home in Fox Lake. Mr. Barbee is a graduate of Duke university and has spoken from pulpits in thirty states and in Canada. Last Sunday he was the featured speaker at a rally sponsored by 15 Baptist churches in the Rockford theatre, in Rockford, Ill. The new subdivision extending from North ave. to Cross, or Zeller lake, will have a 20-foot pavement in a 60-foot roadway from North avenue to the lake. It will parallel Zeller lane which property owners refused to turn over to the realtor, Max Horwitz for improvement and use.

Horwitz will begin at once the laying out of lots in the east portion of the subdivision east of the roadway and will first sell lots on the lake front and on North ave.

Village officials said that the roadway improvement in the subdivision conforms to the county requirements, and goes beyond those required by the village.

Antioch Ends Season, Losing to Palatine 7-5, And Bensenville 5 to 4

Losses to Bensenville and Palatine brought to a close a not too successful season for the Antioch High School baseball team.

The Sequoits lost to Palatine there last evening in a wild but close game 7 to 5.

Antioch got 10 hits, two of which were home runs and the bases were loaded when the last man struck out.

Bruce Stahmer hit a homer in the first inning, but was declared out when he failed to touch second base. Bob Weber and Jim Osmond clouted home runs in succession in the second inning, and the Sequoits sent Palatine's Paul Schrage to the showers in the fourth when they scored three runs on four hits. George O'Gurel replaced him.

Stahmer lost the plate in the fifth and allowed Palatine five runs on walks. When he reached his eleventh walk, he retired in favor of Fred Clark. Bob Lawrence did the catching.

Palatine had 7 runs, 6 hits and one error, and Antioch got 5 runs, 10 hits and 3 errors.

The Sequoits lost an extra inning game to the conference leaders, Bensenville, 5 to 4, Tuesday.

The Sequoits spotted the Bisons a 4-1 lead in the first inning, and then Scott's boys rallied with two runs in the fifth, and another in the sixth to tie the score. They were held in check in the seventh and eighth by Joe Jankers, while the Bisons pushed a run over in the eighth after two were out through Don Tuchscherer's two-bagger with one man on base.

Don Weber made a double and a single, while hits by Larry Hosteler, Warren Brownlee, and Jim Osmond figured in the late Sequoit rally. Mark Verke pitched for Antioch.

Wilton, Vos Will Head Victory Memorial Drive In Antioch Community

Robert Wilton and Edmund H. Vos will serve as co-chairmen in the Antioch area to raise money for the new one million dollar addition to Victory Memorial hospital in Waukegan.

Wilton attended a meeting last evening of the building fund committee in the nurse's home of the hospital and was acquainted with the needs of the hospital and objectives of the campaign.

Victory Memorial hospital is one of four hospitals serving the Antioch area. It and St. Therese hospital take care of most of the patients.

A total of approximately $600,000 already has been raised by physicians and industry.

The large new addition to the hospital to relieve crowded conditions is necessitated by the increase in the number of residents of Lake county and its environs; the increased use of hospitals by doctors who seek better care and centralized location for patients; and the increase of hospital insurance.

To Hold Memorial Service

The American Legion Auxiliary unit will hold a memorial service for deceased members at the next regular meeting.

No Santa Claus Needed

The basic medical care problems of small communities can be solved—and in instance after instance are being solved—without turning to government to pay the bills and give the orders. That fact was stressed at the recent Council on Rural Health of the American Medical Association.

The prime requisite, as one speaker phrased it, "seems to have been imagination and leadership." Another said that one point uppermost in rural health planning has been that "there was no Santa Claus in the picture."

A successful community health program demands the cooperation of all concerned—civic groups, labor and business organizations, farm associations, extension services and so on. Doctors are attracted to localities, even very small ones, where the residents are actively out to promote better health and are working to help provide the necessary facilities and opportunities.

It was also emphasized at the council that group health and accident insurance coverage of farmers and their families provides an economical means of meeting medical care costs. This kind of insurance is available through commercial carriers and companies sponsored by the Farm Bureau and the Grange, and also through Blue Cross, Blue Shield and similar voluntary programs.

"Climate" Is All Important

The goal of the United States Treasury was described by Secretary Humphrey in these words: "It is our purpose in the Treasury to help provide the proper economic climate in America. The fiscal policy is very important in determining that climate . . . It is our purpose to establish and maintain such fiscal policies as will permit America to continue to grow and reach even higher standards of living for all its people."

That statement of general principle strikes a refreshing note—particularly after years in which a basic Treasury policy seemed to be the search for new and even more oppressive ways to soak the taxpayers. The "economic climate" of which Mr. Humphrey spoke will largely determine whether or not we are to remain strong, secure as a nation, and free. Current administration efforts to cut government costs, to balance the budget, and to make tax reduction possible show that the cheering words are being accompanied by deeds. The job is enormously difficult, but it must be done.

Case for Private Enterprise

In the State of Washington, a conflict of national significance is taking place between defenders of private enterprise and advocates of socialized electric power.

Public utility districts (known as PUDs) are trying to acquire one of the state's two largest business-managed utility companies. To prevent this, it is proposed that the two utilities merge. The proposal has been endorsed by the State Tax association, and it is supported by all who believe in maintaining tax-paying private enterprise. But it is being bitterly opposed by the public power groups, whose aim is to persuade the Washington Public Utilities Company and the Securities and Exchange Commission not to approve the merger.

There have been brazen attempts to delude the public in the matter of rates. So a few facts are in order.

In 1950, according to an analysis of FPC statistics made by Fred Niendorf of the Seattle Post-Intelligencer, the PUDs sold power at an average price of 1.1 cents per kilowatt hour. The utility they are trying to take over sold it at an average of .82 cents.

That utility paid taxes amounting to 23 cents of each dollar of gross revenue. The PUDs, by contrast, paid only 6 cents in taxes or in payments in lieu of taxes. And a number of PUDs also levied taxes—totaling more than $100,000 in 1951—which private enterprise, of course, cannot do.

Many Washington people seem to have found the PUDs unsatisfactory. Last June, a public opinion poll was taken in four representative communities. Private operation as against PUD operation was favored in each case, by margins ranging from 5-to-3 to 5-to-1.

The case in favor of the merger and private enterprise is overwhelming. It would assure Washington residents the lowest feasible power rates. It would protect a major source of tax revenue, instead of reducing it. And it would put another roadblock in the way of creeping socialism—which is as serious a problem as the nation faces.

The Low Down from Hickory Grove

The "era of making simple problems complicated" is for survey today, so I haul out my microscope for a look. The "teen-age problem"—I would say looms up there in the foremost ranks—put there by the hundreds of social science graduates who have now muddled up the waters to such an extent that we are not too sure but what we do have something like a "problem" on our hands.

They are barking up the wrong tree—is my deduction. The problem is not so much a youth problem as a "mama and papa problem." Anybody old enough to be a mama and a papa should learn by that time that there is no substitute for discipline. Those who don't know same, need not be surprised if the police sergeant calls up at 4 a. m. and tells 'em their off-shoot has just been brought in for throwing beer bottles from a racing hot rod. What if the mama and papa are not yet home their ownself, says Henry, then what? You have stumbled onto the answer, I says. When they get home—go get 'em—pop 'em in the cooler with their off-shoot—put all names in next morning paper.

Simple as pie—nothing complicated—as simple even as why white horses eat more than black horses. Is that because there could be more white horses than black, says Henry. Good for you, I says, you are pretty sharp today.

Yours with the low down.

SHORT STORY

The Scaredy-Cat

By BILL STONE

MR. WHITESIDE and his wife, Mary, were playing her version of rummy. It was a peaceful scene: a modern room, a fireplace, and two cats—a nine-pound Tom and a kitten called Blackie—curled before the fire.

3-Minute Fiction

It had been a serene evening since the Whiteside heir, called Stinker by the neighbors, was asleep.

Then came the first sounds of the approaching battle. It was a startling noise that originated in the bathroom. A spark came in Mary's eyes and she said, "John, go see what it is, instantly." Mr. Whiteside marched.

Since Mr. Whiteside was not on speaking terms with the community's burglars, he approached the bathroom cautiously and peeped in. In one corner crouched the ugliest rodent it had ever been his misfortune to see. It snarled at him!

Mr. Whiteside slammed the door. Here was a major problem.

"What is it, John?" Mary called.

"There's a rat in the bathroom," he panted and rushed to the living room for his orders. Mary was standing on a chair, and for the first time in his experience, beyond words.

At this point Mr. Whiteside spied the nine-pound Tom. He picked the animal up and it stretched in his arms, yawned, and purred.

"This," Mr. Whiteside said, "is where you begin to earn your board."

Back at the bathroom, hating himself a little, but firm in his resolve, Mr. Whiteside thrust the cat into the bathroom and slammed the door. He waited breathlessly for the growls and rat noises that of necessity must follow. Nothing happened.

Finally he peeped again. The rat still snarled from his corner and old Tom huddled in another, shaking, and obviously on the verge of collapse.

At that moment old Tom saw his chance to escape and fled between Mr. Whiteside's legs. With the enemy in retreat, the rodent attacked.

One leap carried Mr. Whiteside to the ceiling. The cat pursued by the rat, disappeared in the direction of Stinker's room.

Mr. Whiteside came down from the ceiling with a crash, his anger aroused, and took up the chase. Stinker was standing up in bed and shouting, "They went thataway, Daddy."

"Be careful," Mary called from the living room, now hanging to the chandelier.

"If he gets in bed with me," the boy shouted, "I'll smother him to death with this pillow."

"Silence!" Mr. Whiteside roared.

The master of the household approached his bedroom. The rat sat in the middle of the room, glaring toward the bed. Since old Tom wasn't on it, Mr. Whiteside correctly concluded he was under it.

The rodent looked at Mr. Whiteside and snarled. The master retreated. The boy shouted and Mary screamed something about the chandelier beginning to fall.

At this moment the kitten entered the scene.

Before Mr. Whiteside could stop him, he entered the bedroom. Mr. Whiteside began to shake. In another minute he was going to have a dead kitten on his hands. The kitten pounced on Mr. Whiteside shut his eyes.

There was a squeak and silence. Mr. Whiteside opened his eyes. The kitten marched toward him, tail arched, head up, and prancing like a five-galton stallion. He was dragging the rat.

Mr. Whiteside stepped aside and the kitten danced down the hallway into the living room. Old Tom came out from under the bed and sneaked along behind them. Mary stopped her screaming and looked down upon the procession with awe. The kitten went to the front entrance and waited. Mr. Whiteside rushed to open the door and the kitten marched out into the night, tail waving, his duty done.

Old Tom sat at Mr. Whiteside's feet, looking out into the night, and began to purr.

"Out!" Mr. Whiteside screamed at the nine-pound beast. "If there's anything I can't stand it is a scaredy-cat. Out, I say!"

Hidrolex's simple sugars are picked up rapidly by the blood stream—carried all through the animal's body as a source of quick body-building energy.

You'll join the swing to D-X!—when you see flaming proof of D-X's giant difference!

How Can You Help Your Engine Have Longer Life?

This Test Shows...

1. Your dealer will burn off samples of D-X (either Regular or Ethyl) and any other gasoline. Then you'll know the truth about gasoline. Run your fingers over the smooth, oily film D-X leaves behind.

2. Compare this protection with the dry, hard carbon the other, non-lubricating gasoline leaves. Think how much better D-X is for piston rings, valve assemblies and upper-cylinder walls. You'll switch to D-X Lubricating Gasoline!

You'll say D-X is the gasoline with the Giant Difference you want. In fact, when you buy canned upper-cylinder lubricants, you're actually trying to get the D-X Giant Difference. But D-X Lubricating Gasoline (both Regular and Ethyl) gives you that oily protection for your piston rings, valve assemblies and upper-cylinder walls at no extra cost! So ask your D-X Dealer for Flaming Proof. Then buy D-X Lubricating Gasoline. It's sold with an absolute money-back guarantee.

ANOTHER GIANT VALUE! STEPPED-UP D-X MOTOR OIL!

New, improved D-X Motor Oil beats highest aviation-oil standards. For it's stepped-up with Extrol, the D-X "wonder drug" for lubricants. It resists sludging during cold-engine city driving and fights thinning out during high-speed, hot engine highway driving.

Hundreds of gasolines...but only one....

122-YEAR TALK

America's Oldest
Border Dispute
Finally Settled

WASHINGTON—The oldest dispute in the new world, possibly the longest of history, has finally been settled. Colombia and Venezuela, after 122 years of negotiations, have agreed to Venezuelan sovereignty over Los Monges, "The Monks," a cluster of eight uninhabited rocks at the mouth of the Gulf of Venezuela.

The dispute began in 1830 when Simon Bolivar's "Great Colombia" broke up and claimed conflicting slices of the country. Each claimed "The Monks."

Los Monges comprises three groups of sunbaked crags about 20 miles off the Guajira peninsula. The highest is 230 feet above the Caribbean. No one has ever lived on the islets.

The rocks are of great importance today because they stand watch over the approaches of Lake Maracaibo's steaming, oil-rich shallows below the Gulf of Venezuela. Maracaibo is one of the great oil producing basins of the world. Forests of derricks rear from the water as much as eight miles offshore.

In the old days the islands were pirate lairs and smuggler's ports. But their one claim to attention in the modern world is the possibility that the oil of Maracaibo may extend seaward as far as the rocks themselves.

But it took 122 years of the wordiest negotiations in history to settle the dispute that has caused constant trouble between Colombia and Venezuela.

British Noblemen
Give Away Castles

LONDON—The British government has announced that the aristocracy could pay their taxes with works of art. In other words, a painting instead of cold cash.

The reason is that many of the nobility have houses and paintings but little money. By accepting paintings the government hopes to preserve some of the old castles and homes which the aristocracy has been giving away.

A castle in Northamptonshire sold for $7,500 just before the war. An Avon castle for $3,500 and one in Ireland, that cost 100,000 pounds to build, for $280.

Some are even being torn down and crated.

The reason is the heavy cost of maintenance and taxes. So now the government will accept paintings, but what happens to the pictures that the government "buys" has not yet been decided. They may be moved to public galleries or they may be left in houses where the public is allowed on sight-seeing trips.

Many English noblemen already conduct tourist parties through their ancient houses at 35 cents or so a head as an additional means of paying for upkeep.

U. S. Birth Rate
In 1952 Sets Record

NEW YORK—More babies were born in the United States during 1952 than in any previous year in the nation's history. The total is estimated at 3,875,000, and the year's birth rate was approximately 25 per 1,000 population.

The past year was the sixth in succession in which the number of births exceeded 3,500,000.

The maintenance of the birth rate at the current high level is described by statisticians as "unexpected" in view of a decline since 1946 in the marriage rate.

Last year's record reflects a large number of second, third and fourth children born of post-World War II marriages and is, to some extent, the result of the relatively low age at marriage in recent years. It also may be considered an indication of a change in attitude of the young married people of the nation as to the size of the family.

Infant mortality was probably the lowest ever experienced in any year. It was estimated at a little over 28 per 1,000 births.

New Chemical

One of the largest chemical companies in the United States has announced a double-barreled chemical weapon, to arm certain crop seeds against both disease and insect attack, will be available to farmers.

The material combines a fungicide to protect the seed and seedling against soil-borne diseases, and an insecticide which is toxic to insects in the soil that feed on the seed and young plant.

The new material is being recommended for use on corn and beans in many areas where both disease and insect onslaught have prevented growers from getting consistently good stands of these crops. It is also being tested for use with other crops.

New Zealand's Highest Peak

New Zealand's highest peak is Mount Cook which rises 12,345 feet above sea level. There are 223 peaks over 7,500 feet high in the country.

Set Rug Trend

Queen Elizabeth of England is credited with having put the rug in its place. By the queen's order, a large rug was spread over rushes on the floor of her throne room, according to historical researchers of Johnson's wax. Bumpy as the surface must have been, it set a fashion that endured, although the polished floor has now supplanted the rushes.

Tips on Traffic Safety

By
CHARLES E. CARPENTIER
Secretary of State

The good weather time of year is with us again, and will be for the next three or four months. It is a time for family outings, vacations, Sunday drives—a time when you will probably be spending considerably more time on the highways.

Visibility will be good, the roads will be dry—conditions will be "perfect." That is, they will be "perfect" for you to forget that driving is a serious business. You will feel like looking at the scenery, listening to the radio, perhaps speeding up a bit, or just relaxing.

Don't let yourself take those chances. A surprisingly large number of accidents happen on straight stretches of highway in clear weather on dry roads, just because conditions were so "perfect" one driver thought he could let his attention lag.

Don't you be that driver who let his mind wander. Somebody else may be doing it, and you may need all your attention and skill to get out of his way.

Antioch V. F. W. Men Get District Office

Two members of the Antioch post, Veterans of Foreign Wars were elected to district office at the annual election of the fifth district at the Smith-Spald post in Waukegan, Sunday, May 17.

Tony Sciacero of Lake Villa, was elected quartermaster for one year and Edwards was elected to serve as trustee for one year.

This is the first time that any member of the Antioch post has held district office. In the past all of the offices in the fifth district usually went to the southern part of the district and the entrance of Antioch into the district executive and administrative group is considered quite an accomplishment.

A/le Eugene D. Ross, son of Mrs. George Ross, Sr., of South Main st., left the Philippine Islands on May 14 and is now in Seoul, Korea, about 20 miles from the front lines.

SHORT STORY

SHORT

Huraken

By BOB CONNER

THIS is a love story of a Cherokee, Huraken, and a maiden named Manuita. The story begins when Huraken discovered a cave in the land called Kah-ten-tah-teh.

3-Minute Fiction

Although it was forbidden for him to enter a cave, because the Cherokees believed the spirit of the earth dwelled in them, he did so and there found a streak of shining metal across one wall. From it he chipped a large piece and thought what a beautiful present he could make for the sachem, a present that would perhaps win for him the hand of Manuita.

He left the cave and beside a small stream began to pound the metal into a tomahawk, topped with a pipe. It was soon finished and truly a gift worthy of a great chief. He hid the present and returned to his village. He went immediately to see the sachem.

"Your journey has been long, Huraken," the chief said.

"Yes," Huraken said. "Many days toward the west. A great

He made a beautiful present, a peace pipe of silver.

Journey. But I would speak of other things."

The old sachem smoked in silence. At last he said, "For two winters I have known you would seek an answer. You have brought deer to my lodge and I have taken them in. But can you not wait?"

"I have waited two winters," Huraken said. "Manuita is of the age to marry."

The sachem was slow in replying. "Very well. She loves you, but there is a condition."

"What is it?" Huraken asked.

"When the moon is dark the warriors will cross the river and surprise the Iroquois. You must lead them."

Huraken was agreeable. "May I tell Manuita?"

"Tell Manuita," the old sachem said.

The raid went well. Huraken led his warriors through the Iroquois village and the old men and women and children shivered in their lodges in fear. The Cherokees scattered the Iroquois warriors like the wind carries leaves from the trees. Huraken led his raiders back across the river. But there he made a mistake.

He slipped away into the forest to the place where he had hidden his gift. He failed to tell his warriors where he was going and many believed that he had been killed in the last skirmish before they recrossed the river.

They returned to their village and told the sachem that Huraken was dead. And the sachem told Manuita.

She cried it was not so and rushed to the great cliff outside the village from where she could watch the trail. There she stayed for a day and night without food and water watching for him to come along the trail that passed along the base of the cliff.

The next afternoon, after hours of waiting she saw a shadow moving through the forest. She jumped to her feet and leaned forward for a better look. And then came tragedy. Her foot slipped and she plunged over the cliff.

It was Huraken she had seen. In a few moments he came along the trail and there found his beloved Manuita. He gave such a cry that all the Cherokees came from their lodges in fear.

They saw him pick Manuita up and watched him carry her into the village to the sachem's lodge. There he left her.

When the wailing and sorrowing had subsided someone looked for Huraken. He was gone. It is said he was never seen again.

This is the tale of Huraken and Manuita as told among the Cherokees; a tale that old men tell as they sit around lodge fires while outside the rain falls and wet, tinted leaves drop from oaks and maples; a tale the maidens whisper among themselves and lovers ponder.

Is it true? Who knows?

But this is true! At the base of a great cliff, in the land that is now known as Kentucky, an early settler found a beautiful silver tomahawk, topped with a pipe. And ever since men have looked for the streak of silver across one wall of a great cave.

Exploding Oil Burner Does Slight Damage at Hart Poultry Building

An exploding oil burner in a brooder house at the Robert Hart farm on Grass Lake rd. slightly injured Mrs. Hart and threatened the building at 4 p. m. Monday.

The Antioch fire department responded to the call and was able to save the building, a frame 14x14 foot structure.

Mr. and Mrs. Hart had just lighted the burner in preparation of starting some new chickens, and were testing out the equipment. Fortunately the peeps had not been placed in the brooder, which was destroyed.

Mrs. Hart's hair was singed and her face scorched. First aid was administered by Herman Holbek of the Antioch Rescue Squad.

POLO DOUBLE HEADER AT ARLINGTON FARMS SATURDAY AND SUNDAY

The 1953 polo season at Arlington Farms, Buckley rd., north of Libertyville, gets off to a flying start on Memorial day at 2:30 p. m., with the first game of a holiday double header.

The Arlington Farms club, which this year will be wearing the livery of the Catholic Youth Organization, will tangle with the Milwaukee polo club, long-time rivals for midwest polo leadership, on Memorial day and again on Sunday, May 31.

TRAFFIC TIPS

The first of the popular holidays of the mid-year, Memorial day, will be here shortly, and many people will take advantage of it to make their first motor trips of the spring and summer seasons.

Highways will be crowded, and many of the drivers will be those who do not often get out on the open road. It will be a time for extra alertness, extra caution, extra courtesy on your part. More than at any other times, holidays are the times when lives lost may be the price of a few seconds saved.

Take your time. Speed is the leading cause of traffic crashes. It is better to arrive late than not at all.

Memorial day is the day when we honor those who gave their lives for our country. Don't foolishly endanger yours or anyone else's by taking chances. Don't be a highway casualty.

malignant forms, is readily amenable to treatment by irradiation or surgery when it is discovered early. But it is an insidious type that ordinarily produces no symptoms that would lead the patient to seek medical aid until it has spread to other organs and the possibility of cure is small. The survey picks up the early curable cases.

Firemen, First Aiders Will Get State Pay For Emergency Calls

The Illinois Assembly has passed a bill providing for pay for volunteer fire fighters and members of emergency rescue squads where they give services beyond their recognized community. The bill is now ready for Governor Stratton's signature. This would mean that if the local firemen and rescue squad are called in emergency cases to help in distant places they would receive pay for it by the state. The Rescue squad has been called away as far as Des Plaines and Waukegan.
